

A close-up photograph of a grapevine branch. The branch is light brown and woody, with several green, serrated leaves growing from it. Some leaves are fully developed, while others are still in bud form. Small, developing grape clusters are visible at the ends of some branches. The background is a blurred wooden surface.

Ihr seid
die Reben.

Ich bin der Weinstock.

mY